

Application
Bob Hammel/Jennie B. Wilson Scholarship

You are eligible for consideration to receive this scholarship if you are entering an Indiana University campus as a freshman, full-time student in the upcoming fall semester. By way of identifying the names on this scholarship: Bob Hammel, a native of Huntington, had a 50-year career as a newspaper writer. A major early influence in his career choice was Jennie B. Wilson, a distinguished, long-time English teacher in Huntington County high schools. There are writing requirements for receiving consideration for this scholarship, listed on this form, but eligibility for receiving it will not be affected by your intended choice of major, whether in a writing-related field or not. Rather, the writing segments seek to test your ability to state your thoughts and intentions clearly and well (an expectable requisite for anything carrying Miss Wilson's name).

ESSAY QUESTION INSTRUCTIONS:

The following questions are intended to give you the opportunity to present your ideas to the Scholarship Committee in essay form. The Committee will use the essay to evaluate your ability to express yourself in clear and correct prose. We are also eager to learn more about your intellectual and personal interests – to get to know you better. Please give careful consideration both to the form and the content of your essay. You may use additional pages if needed, but please write your name on each sheet attached.

Q: What do you consider the most interesting book you have read? Explain why.

Q: What would you consider a dream career for you? Why?
