THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY BICENTENNIAL CAMPAIGN MATCHING PROGRAM
FOR ALL WHO WISH TO MAXIMIZE THE IMPACT OF THEIR GIFTS
A historic anniversary calls for a historic gift-matching program. That’s why, as Indiana University prepares to celebrate its bicentennial anniversary, we are prepared to match the generosity of all who wish to support IU’s most valuable asset: our people.

If you choose to support an undergraduate scholarship, graduate fellowship, or endowed faculty position—or if you are a current or former IU faculty or staff member—your gift could qualify for this historic match.

By joining us in the IU bicentennial campaign matching program, you significantly increase the impact of your gift, maximizing your investment in meaningful opportunities that will enhance the lives of IU students and faculty throughout the university’s third century and beyond.

At its core, Indiana University is defined by those who teach and learn in our hallowed halls: the professors and students across all eight campuses who are striving to improve the state, nation, and world. Make a gift today to support these talented men and women, and together we’ll create a brighter future for all.
During our first two centuries, IU graduates have accomplished a lot: They’ve written worldwide bestsellers (such as The Hunger Games series), co-founded the company that invented voice mail, and served as the first national director of the American Red Cross. As IU students, many of these men and women received significant financial support that enabled them to pursue their dreams, achieve their visions, and ultimately, change the world.

Indiana University is committed to ensuring that as many deserving and talented students as possible have access to the world-class education IU provides. That’s why, through the bicentennial campaign matching program, Indiana University has set aside a pool of funds to provide matching support for all new endowed undergraduate scholarships of $50,000 or more and all new endowed graduate fellowships of $250,000 or more.

By providing IU students with endowed scholarships and fellowships, we can:

• Attract the brightest minds to IU
• Provide access to an IU education in communities across our state
• Give scholars opportunities to conduct important research
• Decrease student debt
• Support an academic environment that will equip students to thrive—now and into the future

The challenges that the world faces during IU’s third century will require innovative ideas, reflective global citizens, and pragmatic problem solvers. With your help, we can continue to give the world exactly what it needs.

LET’S GIVE THE STUDENTS OF IU’S THIRD CENTURY A RUNNING START

During our first two centuries, IU graduates have accomplished a lot: They’ve written worldwide bestsellers (such as The Hunger Games series), co-founded the company that invented voice mail, and served as the first national director of the American Red Cross. As IU students, many of these men and women received significant financial support that enabled them to pursue their dreams, achieve their visions, and ultimately, change the world.

Indiana University is committed to ensuring that as many deserving and talented students as possible have access to the world-class education IU provides. That’s why, through the bicentennial campaign matching program, Indiana University has set aside a pool of funds to provide matching support for all new endowed undergraduate scholarships of $50,000 or more and all new endowed graduate fellowships of $250,000 or more.

By providing IU students with endowed scholarships and fellowships, we can:

• Attract the brightest minds to IU
• Provide access to an IU education in communities across our state
• Give scholars opportunities to conduct important research
• Decrease student debt
• Support an academic environment that will equip students to thrive—now and into the future

The challenges that the world faces during IU’s third century will require innovative ideas, reflective global citizens, and pragmatic problem solvers. With your help, we can continue to give the world exactly what it needs.
By endowing an undergraduate scholarship or graduate fellowship at IU through the bicentennial campaign matching program, you can maximize the impact you make in the lives of IU students, and in turn, the impact you make on the world.

Endowed Scholarships and Fellowships Matching Guidelines

Campus: Endowed scholarships and fellowships at all eight IU campuses will be eligible for matching funds.

Eligibility: All new endowed scholarships of $50,000 or more; all new endowed fellowships of $250,000 or more.

Match details: Once your gift is fully funded and generating spendable income, an IU match equal to 4.5 percent of your original gift amount will be provided annually.

Minimum/maximum gift: To qualify for the match, there is a $50,000 minimum for new endowed scholarships and a $250,000 minimum for new endowed fellowships. Each household/corporation is subject to a $5 million maximum for all matching programs.
IDEAS THAT CHANGE THE WAY WE LIVE BEGIN IN THE MINDS OF IU PROFESSORS

The first ADA-approved fluoride-based toothpaste. The cure for testicular cancer. Nobel Prize-winning research in economic sciences. All these ideas were born from the work of IU faculty members and researchers. And all were supported in part by gifts from friends like you.

With state funding covering smaller shares of IU’s operating budget and a highly competitive market vying for the greatest talent, maintaining a superior faculty is a challenging task. That’s where you come in.

When you give to establish an endowed faculty position, you are helping IU recruit and retain the best and brightest scholars, who will in turn create a rich academic environment in which students are prepared to thrive, and in which new ideas and innovations are tested and perfected. While the principal of an endowed gift is never spent, investment earning from the gift may be used to:

• Support a student assistant
• Fund travel to a research site or conference
• Develop materials for a new class
• Purchase essential equipment
• Fund a study or publication

Establishing an endowed faculty position will link your gift—and your name—to IU in perpetuity. It will create a legacy that will help faculty members, students, and the communities they touch—today and far into IU’s next century.
By establishing an endowed faculty position, you can help us reward deserving IU faculty members by honoring them with an endowed position that allows for greater funding—and greater impact. Your named endowment will also extend your personal IU legacy in perpetuity.

Endowed Faculty Position Matching Guidelines

Campus: New endowed faculty positions at all eight IU campuses will be eligible for matching funds.

Eligibility: Bicentennial Chair, Bicentennial Professor, Bicentennial Librarian, Bicentennial Curator, Bicentennial Professor of Practice.

Match details: Once your gift is fully funded and generating spendable income, an IU match equal to 4.5 percent of your original gift amount will be provided annually.

Minimum/maximum gift: The minimum amount to qualify is equal to the minimum amount necessary to fund the position as outlined by current policy. Minimum amounts range from $500,000 to $2 million, depending on the school.
FOR IU FACULTY AND STAFF MEMBERS, A SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY TO DEEPEN YOUR DEDICATION

Our students, our academic programs, and our campuses have all benefitted from your hard work. If you decide to make a gift that extends your legacy, President Michael A. McRobbie has set aside funds to enhance all new endowments of at least $25,000 established by current or former full-time faculty and staff. These endowed gifts may be made to any part of the university.

Give to your department, honor a colleague across campus (or across the state), or support a cause close to your heart. No matter where you choose to give, we will help maximize the impact of your gift.

On behalf of the students who will receive financial support as a result of your generosity; on behalf of the researchers who can continue their important work because you gave; on behalf of the entire IU family, let us thank you in advance for your continued support of IU.

Current and former faculty and staff of Indiana University: Let us start by saying thank you for all that you’ve done for IU. Thank you for the extra hours and the late nights. Thank you for your preparation, dedication, and expertise. Thank you for pushing yourself to the limits on behalf of Indiana University.
No matter where you choose to give, you can double the impact of your gift and continue to change lives at IU for generations to come.
