The Parents Circle
AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY
Great families build great universities.
Though these families have shaped the IU story at different points in history, and have come from across the country and around the world, they’ve all shared a singular vision: They want what’s best for their children and for Indiana University.

Everything beautiful and enduring at Indiana University—from our academic programs to our campus traditions to our reputation for excellence—has been built and sustained by great IU families.

“We know you’re committed to your child’s success at IU. That’s why we invite you to join the Parents Circle today.”

“The opportunities I’ve received because of my scholarship have really changed my life—in all ways, shapes, and forms.”

Kate Gessling, special/elementary education major
Parents are our greatest partners.

The Parents Circle is an exclusive group of families that are shaping the present—and future—of Indiana University through their volunteer efforts and philanthropic support.

“Parents play an integral role in Indiana University’s success. Many give their time, their talents, and their financial support to make sure their students have the best experience possible. We are grateful for every Hoosier parent who partners with us to ensure that IU continues to flourish.”

Michael A. McRobbie
President of Indiana University
By giving to the Parents Fund, Parents Circle members provide critical private support that directly enhances the IU experience. The Parents Fund helps enrich IU for your student and all students—from creating innovative study spaces in the library, to offering emergency loans to students in crisis, to funding special opportunities like study abroad programs, service-learning initiatives, career counseling, and more.

Many Parents Circle members support other areas of campus as well, whether that be athletic programs, arts and cultural offerings, or their child’s academic unit. In all these ways, Parents Circle members are vital partners in sustaining and enriching the world-class educational opportunities that IU provides.
We invite you to join us.

Joining the Parents Circle at IU is an opportunity to show your tremendous pride in your child's achievements and your commitment to their future success.
