Great families build great universities.
Though these families have shaped the IU story at different points in history, and have come from across the country and around the world, they’ve all shared a singular vision: They want what’s best for their children, and for Indiana University.

Everything beautiful and enduring at Indiana University—from our academic programs to our campus traditions to our reputation for excellence—has been built and sustained by great IU families.

“The opportunities I’ve received because of my scholarship have really changed my life—in all ways, shapes, and forms.”

Kate Gessling, special/elementary education major
We know that you’re committed to your child’s success at IU. That’s why we invite you to join the Parents Giving Circle today.
Parents are our greatest partners.

The Parents Giving Circle is an exclusive group of families that are shaping the present—and future—of Indiana University through their volunteer efforts and philanthropic support.

“Parents play an integral role in Indiana University’s success. Many give their time, their talents, and their financial support to make sure their students have the best experience possible. We are grateful for every Hoosier parent who partners with us to ensure that IU continues to flourish.”

Michael A. McRobbie
President of Indiana University
Giving Circle members provide critical private support for a campus area of their choosing, directly enhancing the IU experience for their students and many others. They also serve as ambassadors for IU, helping to advance efforts that increase the participation and engagement of other parents and families.

Most importantly, they are vital partners in sustaining and enriching the world-class educational opportunities that IU provides. By demonstrating their willingness to lead, they inspire other Hoosier parents to step up to the challenge.
We invite you to join us.

Joining the Parents Giving Circle at IU is an opportunity to show your tremendous pride in your child’s achievements, and your commitment to their future success.
By giving an annual gift of $2,500, you can join with other IU families to play an integral role in providing the resources and experiences that prepare your student—and thousands of others—to become the leaders of tomorrow.

Joining the Parents Giving Circle is also a great way to meet other IU parents from across the country who share your goal of enriching the student experience through philanthropy. Plus, you’ll receive exclusive benefits, including invitations to special events, and communications that keep you up to date on important university activities.
To learn more about the Parents Giving Circle, please contact Carmella Hise, executive director of parent engagement at the IU Foundation, at 812-855-6095 or chise@iu.edu.

Join the Parents Giving Circle today and equip your student—and IU—for tomorrow.