Video Transcript

[Music begins]

[View of female student]

Words appear: Lori Fitzgerald, IU student from Kokomo, Indiana.

Lori speaks: My name's Lori Fitzgerald and my major is radiography.

[Close-up head shot of Lori]

Lori continues: I had six boys in 7 1/2 years, and I stayed home with them. I encountered a lot of things that I had to work through in order to be able to be committed as a full-time student. So I really had to sit down and I had to list all of my obstacles, everything that could stop me from completing my education.

[Video: Close-up of Lori's hands using fingers to count obstacles.]

Lori continues: The cost of the books, you need to buy your scrubs,

[Video: Close-up head shot of Lori]

Lori continues: you need to have gas to get to clinical, vaccinations, health insurance.

[Video: Camera angle moves back. Longer view of Lori]

Lori continues: The day I learned that I had received the scholarship here at IU Kokomo, it's called a Your Chance Scholarship.

[Video: Close-up head shot of Lori with an excited expression on her face.]

Lori continues: I was right in the middle of figuring out, OK, I did it. I was one of 12 students accepted into radiography, but I have no clue how I'm going to pay for it.

[Video: Camera angle moves back. Longer view of Lori with a big smile on her face.]

Lori continues: And I got that scholarship. I was doing the happy dance.

[Video: Close-up head shot of Lori]

Lori continues: I was so excited. To be able to fill in those holes with this scholarship, it makes the difference between my being able to complete the program and not.

[Video: Lori and four other students wearing their graduation caps and gowns gathered together taking their photo with a selfie-stick.]

[Video: Rest of group fades and only Lori's smiling face is highlighted.]

Words appear: Lori graduated in 2015.

More words appear: Thanks to IU donors.

[Video: Close-up of Lori]

Lori continues: Your gift matters so much more than you know.

[Music ends.]
